COMMENT OF THE DAY

Man To Man

Mr Harold Macmillan is blessed among politicians with the ability to give the soft answer, the obvious reply, the innocuous comment without sounding pompous or inane. His comment on his talks with President Eisenhower is a good example. "I think that on both sides we felt gratified and heartened by the extent to which our views and assessments coincided."

Neither the Prime Minister's best friends nor Mr Gait-skill would describe the words as epoch making. He told the National Press Club that there was no prepared agenda and that he and the President did in fact discuss most of the great issues of the day. In his own effective mixture of the casual and the serious, he went on to "blow Britain's trumpet." Nothing but good can come from such a friendly and innocuous exchange at the highest political level.

A Contrast

WHAT a contrast this visit makes with preparations going on for a summit conference. There is a difference between the casual meeting of two allies and the long winded parleying of rival parties in a fully declared cold-war.

But what after all could have been achieved at Washington beyond a joke and handshake that Ambassadors and notes could not have done? What can any meeting achieve? What can carry on as if the problems of the world would dissolve when Heads of State meet face to face.

A Danger

IN any meeting, be it for politics, or business, the chances are that the more casual the event, the more hopeful its outcome. When elaborate preparations precede discussion, there is a danger that the very differences to be discussed will be either settled or insoluble by the time the top men are brought face to face.

There is certainly a danger in meeting representatives of the Soviet Union, that they will use such an occasion simply as a propaganda platform. There is considerable danger that representatives of both sides will come so carefully briefed on what they want and where they cannot give way that effective discussion of any kind is impossible. And there is, in any case, the danger that a meeting will be assessed on its "results"—the problems it has settled.

A Rubber Stamp

WHEN Mr Macmillan met Mr Eisenhower there were no "results." Too much emphasis upon the results of a conference may well place too great a responsibility upon the shoulders of one man. The man must then be bolstered up with such a routine of "advisers" that he might as well be a rubber stamp. This is the worst that saddled the executive power of Monarchy and there is a danger that the modern executive may be sapped again.

It would be a position we return to at our peril, for the shrinking world today requires that there be more top men like Mr Macmillan who can wander footloose and to some extent opinionless, face to face, speak to their Man To Man, and not produce "results."

Government Drops Votes In Two Electorates TORY BY-ELECTION SHOCKS

South Ealing Majority Is Halved LABOUR GAINS IN WIGAN

By FRASER WIGHTON

London, June 12.

Voters at South Ealing, London, provided a new shock for the Government today by halving its former majority in a parliamentary by-election.

REVOLT GENERAL LAUNCHES NEW GAULLIST PARTY

Paris, June 12.

French Air Force General Lionel Max Chassin, one of the mysterious figures involved in the Algiers insurrection, said today he was launching a "popular movement" to help Gen. Charles de Gaulle "clean up" France and turn her into a non-party state.

Chassin was making his first public appearance since the May 13 coup in Algiers when he "disappeared" from the Paris scene.

Today he claims he had set up an "underground" network in southern France.

Chair Thrown

The General also claimed General Raoul Salan, commander-in-chief in Algeria, and paratroop general Jacques Massu, president of the Algiers junta, fully approved his plans for the rally.

Gen. Chassin, 56-year-old former Air Defence Co-ordinator of Nato in Europe, strongly denied at a news conference that he and his supporters had fascist leanings.

But a leftwing newspaperman, who was not immediately identified, proclaimed the general a "fascist" and hurled a chair at him.

Chassin, an active Rugby player, caught the flying wicker chair before it could hit him. His bodyguard, composed of weather-beaten paratroopers in civvies, promptly bundled the attacker out of the room into the street.

Unperturbed by the incidents, the General pressed his attack against the Fourth Republic's "system."

The basic motto of Chassin's political action appeared to be his opening words: "We trust De Gaulle but not the men around him."

The Gutter

"The republic was patriotic until 1918. At that time France was the largest single military power. 'Where are we now?' Chassin asked, pounding the table.

"In Algeria we have our back pressed against the wall. And we are determined to stop the defeat. This time we will go on to the end," he said.—U.P.I.

SOUSTELLE IN PARIS

Paris, June 12.

M. Jacques Soustelle, political adviser to the All-Algeria Public Safety Committee, flew to Paris today for talks with General Charles de Gaulle.

The General himself summoned M. Soustelle, idol of the French settlers in Algeria and formerly his right-hand man in the post-war Gaullist political organisation.

Those close to M. Soustelle do not expect him to be offered an official post at present. General de Gaulle is reported to have said last week in Algiers that he intended to retain M. Soustelle "for a later stage."

It seems likely that in his conversations with the General, M. Soustelle will press the wishes of Algiers in connection with the future form of the French Union and its hope for Algeria to be an integral part of Metropolitan France.

Meanwhile an Algerian cable said that the Army Commander General Raoul Salan has advised General de Gaulle not to order the withdrawal of Army officers from the turbulent Public Safety Movement. It was learned tonight.—Reuter & U.P.I.

In Tomorrow's China Mail

WOULD George Bernard Shaw have approved of his play "Pygmalion"? Find the answer in tomorrow's feature-packed weekend issue of the China Mail. Sir Beverley Baxter, one of Britain's best journalists, gives a carefully-thought out reply. Included in the big 20-page issue is "I Walked 8,000 Miles To Freedom," part three of a thrilling true-life escape from a Siberian prison—and a marathon hike by the author, Clemens Forell, to Germany.

Other highlights for your weekend reading pleasure are:
★ Sensations of Sport—by John Cottrell;
★ Show Business—Inside stories of filmdom by top reporters in Britain and Hollywood;
★ I'll Never Understand Women—another short story by Hongkong writer, George Ramage.

Also all the latest news and views, two full pages of local pictures of last week's social and news stories, one page of the latest news pictures from Britain, Pictorial English by J. W. Thompson of the Hongkong University, your favourite cartoons and comics. Pick up a China Mail on your way home tomorrow!

The result, declared tonight was:
Mr B. Balford, Conservative—17,417 votes.
Mr Hugh Garside, Labour—11,258 votes.
Mr Philip Skelley, Liberal—5,950 votes.
Conservative majority—5,159 votes compared with 12,530 votes at the 1955 general election.

Second Setback

It was the Government party's second disappointment in one day, for at Wigan, Lancashire, the Labour Party, defending a Parliamentary seat, increased its majority to a record figure for the constituency.

The result, also declared tonight, was:
Mr Ernest A. Fitch, Labour—27,415 votes.
Mr John J. Hodgson, Conservative—10,248 votes.
Mr Michael Weaver, Communist—972 votes.
Labour majority—17,167 votes compared with a 1955 majority of 14,872.

But in a third contest, held at St Helens, Lancashire, the majority of the Labour Party fell.
The result was:
Mr Leslie Spriggs, Labour—20,405 votes.
Mr Mark Carlisle, Conservative—14,411 votes.
Labour majority—11,994 votes.
This compared with 15,883 votes won by Sir Hartley Shawcross, Labour, in the 1955 general election.

Two More

There were in all five Parliamentary by-elections today but the results of two at Weston-Super-Mare, Somerset, and Argyll, Scotland, will be declared tomorrow and Saturday respectively.

This "miniature General Election" in its results so far largely follows the pattern of the 1955 general election. Labour has shown a persistent slump in the Government's prestige—due apparently to public discontent over the high cost of living.

At Ealing South, intervening Liberals—who have done well in recent elections—once again gained votes at the expense of Conservatives.

Their leader, Mr Joseph Grimmond, said after the result: "Once again, the Liberal vote is the only one to increase since the last election."

State Of Parties

In the Ealing contest the Conservatives share of the poll fell to 59.29 per cent compared with 69.57 in 1955. Labour's percentage went up from 30.35 per cent to 32.51 per cent.

The contest at Wigan was caused by the death of the former Labour member and at St. Helens by the resignation of Sir Hartley Shawcross from the House of Commons.

The South Ealing contest was due to the resignation of Mr Angus Maude, who has been appointed Editor of an Australian daily newspaper.

State of parties in the 630-Conservatives and allies 333; Labour 281; Liberals six; Independents eight; Vacant seats two.—Reuter.

PRANKSTERS AT WORK

The grand finale to the Cambridge University Bump Supper night—a time of revelry which marks the end of the May boat crew racing—was the holding of a 1958 Austin Seven van to the roof of the Senate House, 85 feet above the ground.

The task, which was described as a great engineering feat, was done by nine students who borrowed equipment from a University building where repair work was being carried out.

The black spot on the left of the picture shows where the van was before it was moved on Monday to the side of the Senate House.—Reuter.

ONASSIS SUED FOR MILLIONS

Super Tanker Orders Off

Washington, June 12.

The Justice Department filed a multi-million-dollar damage suit today, charging that the shipping interests of Aristotle Socrates Onassis repudiated an agreement to build three new super tankers for American ownership.

The ships, costing $50 million, were to have been built in American shipyards.

The suit, filed in the Federal Court in New York, named as defendants Alexander S. Onassis Corp., Victory Carriers Inc. and Grace National Bank of New York, a trustee for Onassis shipping interests.

The Onassis Corporation is named after the shipping magnate's American-born son.

Mr George Cochran Doub, Assistant Attorney General, said the suit was an outgrowth of a previous settlement agreement with the Greek-born multi-millionaire shipping magnate, who makes his headquarters in Monte Carlo.

Mr Doub explained that years ago the government had filed a suit against Mr Onassis for recovery of 21 vessels—two Liberty ships and 19 tankers—purchased by Onassis-owned American corporations after World War II.

Onassis, an alien, had purchased the ships in violation of a 1916 Act which specifies the sale of such vessels to citizens only.

An out-of-court agreement was reached in December 1955, under which Mr Onassis agreed to pay the U.S. Government $7 million in addition to the $15 million he had already paid as the purchase price for the vessels.

In addition, he was required to turn over 75 per cent of the stock of his ship-owning corporations to Grace National Bank, which was to be a trustee.

PARATROOPS ORDERED TO CYPRUS

London, June 12.

The War Office announced tonight that in view of a deterioration of the internal security situation in Cyprus, a battalion group of paratroops will be sent there as precautionary measure.

It was later learned the third parachute battalion, with a few small supporting units, would probably leave by air on Saturday.

The remainder of the parachute brigade will be at readiness to move at short notice.

Death Toll Nine

Earlier today, Nicosia reports said two Greeks were killed and at least 20 people injured tonight as violence again flared across Cyprus, bringing the death toll in Turkish attacks and communal clashes since Saturday to nine.

The two Greek Cypriots were killed in a clash with Turks near Nicosia in which, according to unofficial reports, a Turkish motor cyclist sent a burst of machinegun fire into a crowd of Greeks who had marched on a curfewed Turkish village.

Three Greeks were wounded here, and 12 others in clashes at the east coast port of Famagusta, where security forces intervened with batons after two Greek buses had been set on fire. Five Turks were injured.

Turkish sources said security forces also used batons and tear gas in Nicosia when men and women from the curfewed Turkish quarter stoned men of the Suffolk Regiment the Turks said a number of people, including women, were injured.

"Partition"

The attack came after a procession of women formed up in the Turkish quarter and, backed by men, marched on the police station demanding the release of their sons, under arrest in connection with acts of arson yesterday.

As the week-long clashes between Turks and Greeks continued, Greek families in the Turkish quarters of Nicosia, Famagusta, and other towns and villages began evacuating to the Greek sectors, while Turks were moving to the Turkish sectors.

One British officer helping the evacuees commented: "This is already one kind of partition of the island; the Greeks want self-determination and union with Greece."—Reuter.

TUC Order On Pay To Striking Busmen

London, June 12.

The Trade Union Congress, to which the majority of British trade unions are affiliated today decided to allow financial aid to be given to the 33,000 striking London bus workers.

The decision was taken in response to a request by Frank Cousins, General Secretary of the Transport and General Workers Union, to which the busmen belong, and marks a virtual reversal of the attitude adopted towards Cousins by the T.U.C. last week.

Under the terms of the decision, each of the affiliated unions will decide upon its own.

HARROW IN DIFFICULTIES

Harrow, June 12.

Harrow, the school whose illustrious pupils include Sir Winston Churchill, is in a financially shaky position, it was revealed today.

Sir Alfred Hurst, a governor of the 400-year-old exclusive public school, told an inquiry here: "The assurance that the school will continue is by no means very strong."

He said the school had not been able to balance its accounts for many years since the war and had been able to continue largely because of generosity by former pupils.—China Mail Special.

NEW SOVIET LETTER TO IKE: 38 PAGES

Washington, June 12.

Mr Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet Prime Minister, tonight sent a new letter to President Eisenhower, which the State Department said apparently was on the subject of a possible summit conference.

The State Department said the letter was 18 pages long and there was also a 20-page annex. Diplomatic negotiations about a possible summit meeting are now under way in Moscow.—Reuter.

Bombay Docks Paralyzed

COST OF LIVING STRIKE

New Delhi, June 12.
 The Indian government today empowered the chairman of dock labour boards in Bombay, Calcutta and Madras to declare an emergency to deal with a dock strike threatened for Monday.

If an emergency is declared the chairman can take summary action against striking workers thought to be creating trouble. The strike has been called by the Communist dominated All India Port and Dock Workers Federation, demanding full implementation of an official commission on improved working conditions.

Talks between the Federation and the government broke down last month.

The chairman of the Bombay Port Trust today warned the Federation that the strike would be illegal as two labour disputes were presently under adjudication.

It is understood that the government is preparing to move troops into the three major ports if necessary in order to keep them open.

Dock Standstill

Supervisory staff of elevator firms in Bombay tonight called off their five-day old strike following the negotiated interim settlement of a pay claim.

Over 5,000 workers were made idle by the strike and tonight 65 ships were waiting to be unloaded.

Meanwhile, 400 workers at the Butcher Island marine oil terminal here struck today demanding immediate payment of alleged arrears in their cost of living allowance.

The strike affected the supply of drinking water to ships, and one oil tanker was unable to unload.

Volunteers Needed

The municipal commissioner of Bombay has called for volunteers to help man some services following the breakdown of talks to prevent a strike of 30,000 workers due to start on Saturday.

Volunteers are needed to man services like drainage, water supply and hospitals. The workers are claiming an increase in the cost of living allowances.—Reuter.

KRUPP SEEKS RETURN TO COAL & STEEL

Measures Understandable In 1945
 Have No Room Any More Today

Bonn, June 12.

West Germany has asked the western allies to negotiate a revision of Herr Alfred Krupp's promise to leave the coal and steel business in Germany, a Krupp spokesman said here today.

He said that in an unpublished aide memoire sent to the western allies last April, the West German government said that the commitment no longer accorded with the times and suggested negotiations for a revision. Krupp himself had made no approach to the allies.

The spokesman was commenting on the refusal, announced today, of the authority of the European coal and steel community to state its attitude to the commitment accepted by Herr Krupp, the firm's sole

High Life

Katmandu, June 12.
 Two scientists of the Indian Geo. On expedition to the Himalayas reported today the discovery of plant and insect life at a record altitude.

Botanist Rao and zoologist Dutta returned last night from a three-week survey of a 1,000-square-mile area around Mount Everest where they collected some 500 plants and 600 insects. Rao said he found plant life at 19,000 feet and collected many herbs found believed non-existent. Dutta said he captured a 13-foot venomous cobra at 9,000 feet altitude.

Plant life had not hitherto been found above 17,000 feet in the Himalayas while cobra were not found above 9,000 feet.—U. P. I.

London, June 12.
 Negotiations on the future of the Buraimi Oasis, the object of a long-standing dispute between Britain and Saudi Arabia, are now being conducted here on a semi-official basis, a well-informed source stated today.

Buraimi, an oil bearing British-protected territory within the Sultanate of Muscat and Oman, is claimed by both Britain and Saudi Arabia.

It was believed that the British Government was prepared to come to a settlement in the dispute, but preferred that relations with Saudi Arabia, broken since the Suez crisis, should first be re-established.

Conflicting interests of the predominantly British Iraq Petroleum Company and the Arabian-American Oil Company, sole concessionaires for Saudi-Arabian oil, were also reported to have played a part in the dispute.

Arbitration

Meanwhile, the Sultan of Muscat and Oman, who has been in London for the past few days, ostensibly "on holiday", has had several recent meetings with the Foreign Secretary, Mr Selwyn Lloyd.

Sydney Cotton, an Australian, representative of King Saud of Saudi Arabia, who is also in London, has suggested that the Buraimi question could be settled by arbitration. He said that the arbitrators should be chosen

TERRORISTS EXECUTED

Ipoh, Perak State, Northern Malaya, June 12.
 Four terrorists in Perak have been "executed" by their comrades within the past year, the state government announced today.

It said this information had been obtained from captured and surrendered Communists.

Of the four, one was shot dead for insubordination, one was strangled for pretending to go mad, tearing up bank notes, and shouting when soldiers were near, one was strangled with parachute cords for insubordination and "wavering", one was killed for failing to improve in his behavior after trying to escape.—Reuter.

RUSSIAN ORDERS

London, June 12.
 Moscow Radio tonight listed goods for which it said Russia was prepared to place large orders in the capitalist countries, as part of its consumer goods programme.

It said Russia needed refrigerator and TV equipment, air conditioning outfits, and machinery for the cellulose, paper, textile, leather, footwear and food industries.

There was a growing demand for packaging and weighing machines, pumps and compressors and mining machinery.

Russia could also place big orders for rolled iron and steel, gas pipes, various chemical products, medical equipment and medical supplies.—Reuter.

T.V. Size Electric Heart-Shocker Kept Her Living

You just can't die with a thing like this. It's too uncomfortable!

Chicago, June 12.

Doctors today told how a 58-year-old housewife was saved from death after her heart had stopped functioning "many times". The woman was identified as Mrs Samuel Winsberg, who was brought to Michael Reese Medical Centre on May 8 suffering from a coronary thrombosis, a blood clot in the artery that nourishes the heart.

Three days later her blood pressure "took a downward slope," Michael Reese doctors said, and the possibility of death was recognized. On May 13 there were indications that her heart had stopped. She had no heart beat, no pulse, and could not inhale oxygen. Her doctor, who declined to permit his name to be used, said she was "moribund".

Then a Michael Reese resident physician secured an electronic device, called a "pacemaker", which shoots a strong electric stimulus through the chest into the heart each time the absence of a heart beat is noted. When no beat was noted in Mrs Winsberg's heart, the machine went into operation. Doctors slept in an adjacent room the nights of May 13, 14, 15 and 16, keeping a vigil. The night of May 14, during one hour, she "experienced many episodes of cardiac standstill," a spokesman said. Each time electrical shocks restored the beat.

The machine, about the size of a portable television set, was used until May 18 on a standby basis, but Mrs Winsberg's heart had resumed a normal beat on May 15.

A Michael Reese spokesman said there were no signs that Mrs Winsberg had cheated death, no brain damage, and "she is alert and happy" while recuperating.—U. P. I.

World "Cabbage Day" Diet

How Much Earth Does A Meat Eater Eat?

London, June 12.
 British vegetarians have appealed to Queen Elizabeth and heads of world governments to hold a weekly Vegetarian Day to ease the world pressure on food "before the crisis becomes acute."

Mr Geoffrey Rudd, Secretary of the Vegetarian Society and the International Vegetarian Union, said in his memorandum sent to all diplomats in Britain representing foreign countries that in 1976 there will be an extra 350 million people to feed in the world.

Two-thirds of the world's population of 2,650,000,000 are already under-nourished, Mr Rudd said, and there is not enough meat to go round. There is one acre of fertile land per person in the world, and a meat-eater needs 1.63 acres, a vegetarian only 0.73 acres.

This means that for every person who insists on a meat diet someone else goes short of food. A Vegetarian Day once a week would help to ease the pressure.—China Mail Special.

The Soviet Economic Offensive
MACMILLAN'S ANSWER TO ITSeeks Support
For Commonwealth
Bank Proposal

Ottawa, June 12. The Prime Minister, Harold Macmillan, here on a two-day informal visit, met this afternoon with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and members of the Cabinet for talks on a trade.

Conservative Ministers attending the meeting were External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, Finance Minister Donald Fleming and Trade Minister Gordon Churchill. Believed high up on the agenda for further discussions between the British and Canadian Prime Ministers was the British proposal for a Commonwealth Bank to underwrite trade and economic expansion.

Was Eager

Sources indicated Mr. Macmillan was eager to secure Canada's support for the bank proposal with a view to placing it on the agenda for the Commonwealth Economic Conference in Montreal in September. The Commonwealth Development Bank would be part of Mr. Macmillan's plan for meeting the Soviet economic offensive. It would assist the underdeveloped countries of the Commonwealth.

This morning the two Prime Ministers and the Canadian External Affairs Minister discussed foreign affairs at an informal session over the dining table at the residence of Mr. Diefenbaker. Disarmament and the related issues of a summit meeting and suspension of nuclear tests were the main topics.

Full Cabinet

During the morning Mr. Macmillan also met the full cabinet and recorded a television interview. Mr. Diefenbaker told newsmen that, in the cabinet meeting, Mr. Macmillan "simply gave a review of foreign affairs in general with particular attention to matters of interest to this country."

He said the political situation in France was discussed.—U.P.I.

POUJADE
RIGHT

Angers, June 12. The burly anti-tax leader, Pierre Poujade, turned his back today on the 32 National Assembly deputies still nominally faithful to him and swung his still-vocal Shopkeepers Party behind the "Public Safety Committee" movement in France. Apparently it was the end of the parliamentary line for the one-time "boy wonder" of the French far right, who only two years ago won 52 parliamentary seats with his brand-new party. But it was a new departure toward extra-legal political activity. Factional election irregularities, disputes and his apparent lack of a program had lost him a score of his deputies. Tonight, a national convention of his "Union for the Defence of Shopkeepers and Artisans" (UDCA Party) authorized him to dissolve his parliamentary group as he had demanded.

DISSOLUTION

The motion ordered the "dissolution pure and simple of the parliamentary group on whom the Bourbonnais chloroform (from the Bourbon Palace where the National meets) has begun to take effect." M. Poujade, 37, also was voted full powers by the UDCA Congress to commit the Poujadist movement as he saw fit "to any action, movement or enterprise which would have for goal the public safety and the total and definite disappearance of the system of the constitution of 1940." This was a clear alignment of the Poujadist group with the extremist elements of the Algerian Public Safety movement, which has been demanding that the Fourth Republic's parliamentary system and its representatives be completely swept aside by General Charles de Gaulle.—U.P.I.

Natives Were Drinking
Methyl Alcohol

Port Moresby, June 12. Methylated spirit is to be immediately declared a restricted import—admitted only under licence—in Australian controlled New Britain, the Legislative Council here was told today by Mr. D. Cleland, the Administrator of the territory.

This move follows the charge in the Legislative Council yesterday by Roman Catholic Father J. Dwyer, that natives in Rabaul, the capital, drank an estimated 20,000 bottles of the spirit in six months of last year.

Mr. Cleland said there would now be Customs check of all imports of the spirit, police would be able to examine suppliers' books and sales, and the measures would deal with the drinking problem "to a very great extent."—China Mail Special.

World Opinion
Conference

Moscow, June 12. Russia today announced a "summit conference of world opinion" to be held in Stockholm on July 16 in a new bid to push disarmament.

The announcement was made to a press conference by Il'ya Zhuravsky, vice-President of the Soviet Peace Committee and eloquent star of successive post-war congresses of the Soviet-sponsored "partisans of peace."—U.P.I.

DELGADO TO GO TO COURT

Lisbon, June 12. Campaign officials for General Humberto Delgado announced tonight they would contest in Portuguese law courts the validity of the presidential elections last Sunday in which the General was defeated. They said in a communique they were taking the case to court in view of "the series of irregularities that were committed."

UN Group
Enters
Lebanon

Beirut, June 12. The first group of United Nations observers arrived in Beirut this afternoon by road from Jerusalem. The Israeli-Lebanese frontier, which had been closed for several years, was specially opened for a few minutes to permit the passage of the group. The observer group consisted of Lieutenant-Colonel Maurice Moltrawd of Sweden, Captain Agnar Strandsberg of Sweden, Captains Poggioni and Caffero, of Italy.

Each of the observers drove a United Nations car. The group was preceded and followed by Lebanese army jeeps.

THE HEAD

In Oslo, it was stated here tonight that Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, the United Nations Secretary-General, had named a Norwegian, Major-General Odd Bull (51), to head a three-man team of men of "wide political or military experience" to observe the situation in Lebanon.

The two other members of the team are a former President of Ecuador, Mr. Gato Plaza, and a former Indian Ambassador to the U.N., Mr. Rajeswar Dajal. The team headed by Major-General Bull will have 20 officers at their disposal, recruited from the staff of the U.N. Truce Commission for Palestine and from different countries.—France-Press and Reuter.

Police Squash
Demonstration

Singapore, June 12. The Straits Times said today the police Special Branch had foiled an attempt by disgruntled Malayan ex-servicemen to use yesterday's Queen's Birthday parade for a demonstration. The Times said a few hours before the parade, the disgruntled, police had seized placards detailing the ex-servicemen's grievances. The police had visited a house where the ringleaders were gathered, the Times said, and had warned them not to take any action. The official police spokesman was not available for comment.—Reuter.

BANDITS ROB MILLIONAIRE AND WIFE

Beverly Hills, June 12. BANDITS last night robbed a millionaire real estate developer and his wife of more than $100,000 in jewelry, furs and cash from their Beverly Hills mansion, police reported. Samuel Hayden, 74, told police the masked robbers entered his bedroom. One carried a gun, and the other had a knife. The bandits took Mrs. Hayden's furs and jewelry and nearly $100,000 in cash, Hayden told the police.

Hayden's former wife, Katie, 75, was slain on February 9, 1957, by their maid, Mrs. Margaret Moore, 29, in their

'Walk For Peace' Pilgrimage

Some 700 people — many of them children took part in the "Walking for Peace" pilgrimage to the White House, Washington recently. They carried slogans such as "Stop the tests" and "Peace in the World — or the World in Pieces". The pilgrimage was organized by the War Resistance League. They want the banning of nuclear weapons. Photo shows twelve-year-old Raymond Dillinger pulls a wagon — containing other children of the marchers — as they near the White House.—Keystone.

The Space Ship
Is Now On The Drawing Board

Los Angeles, June 12. The fictional space ship of the comic strips is now on the draftsman's drawing boards in preparation for actual production, it was reported yesterday.

Kraft Ehrliche, rocket expert of the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., said the Government was interested in the proposed space ship his company has begun designing.

Ehrliche refused to elaborate on plans for the ship in a speech to the American Rocket Society.

PREDICTED

But he predicted that with nuclear power the United States could set up a research instruments station on the moon "within 10 to 15 years."

He said he had developed a system to land instruments on the moon by enclosing them in inflatable rubber containers which could be dropped on any part of the moon surface like a "bouncing rubber ball."

Landing units would be carried aloft in a lunar satellite, inflated and dropped toward the moon's surface. Reverse rocket thrusts would bring the gas inflated containers down "softly."

Rear Admiral John E. Clark, Deputy Director of the Advanced Research Project Agency, predicted a manned satellite would be fired into orbit by the United States in two or three years.

"It will be a short trip. We will probably bring him back after one trip around."

Don't Want To
'Die In The Gutter'

Singapore, June 12. The Straits Times said today Chinese businessmen in Selangor State, southern Malaya, wanted a social security system for themselves, so they would not "die in the gutter" should their firms fail. The Times said they would move a resolution urging the establishment of the scheme when Malaya's Associated Chinese Chambers of Commerce met for their annual conference on June 22.—Reuter.

Mother & Four Children Die

Albany, June 12. The wife of a U.S. airman in Germany and her four small children died trapped in flames that swept their one-room apartment early today. The dead were identified as Mrs. Barbara Chapman, 27, and her children, Karen, 5, Sharon, 4, Billy, 2, and Susan 11 months. Their bodies were found in the blackened apartment recently built above a garage.—U.P.I.

Buchenwald

Slaughtered
Like Rabbits
For The Sunday Market

Beyreuth, June 12. Buchenwald concentration camp inmates were "slaughtered like rabbits for the Sunday market", the presiding judge at the trial of Martin Sommer, 43, known as "the killer of Buchenwald", told the court today.

Sommer, an ex-officer of the Nazi S.S. (Elite Guard) is charged with at least 33 or hundreds of murders he is said to have committed, by shooting, strangling, beating and injection. Sommer said that "shortly after the declaration of war, the order was given by Commandant Koch to liquidate the prisoners by injection because we had no shooting gallery."

Satisfied

Speaking in a matter-of-fact voice as if he were a government official, satisfied that he had carried out orders satisfactorily, Sommer said the execution "did not last more than five or ten minutes. If I were to be executed today, I would prefer injection to the firing squad or hanging. Sommer claimed he did not recall the number of these executions he had performed, but a former member of the camp staff said that a preliminary investigation had shown that 180 prisoners were killed in the presence of the defendant.

The trial was adjourned until June 18.—France-Press.

New Member
For Atom Club

Paris, June 12. A French Foreign Ministry spokesman declined to comment today on a French press report that General de Gaulle had ordered work on a French atomic bomb to be speeded up. The report, in the conservative newspaper Paris-Press, said that the General had told French diplomats that France must join the "Atomic Club" with the United States, Russia and Britain.—Reuter.

Cyprus Plan

Ankara, June 12. Turkish Foreign Minister, Fatin Mucit Zorlu, confirmed today that the British Government had delivered to the Turkish and Greek Governments its plans for settling the Cyprus problem, but made no comment on the plan.—France-Press.

HERE'S A QUIZ THAT WILL HELP YOU TO JUDGE YOURSELF
ON WHETHER YOU ARE A GOOD JUDGE OF OTHERS

How well can you size people up?

DO you pride yourself on your ability to "size people up" quickly? That new man (or new girl) in the office—can you tell at once whether he or she will be conscientious, loyal, and efficient?

When a marriage breaks up do you say: "I know from the start they would never hit it off?" And did you say that at the time?

Some people have this sort of judgment. Many people think they have.

Today a psychological consultant poses 20 questions which will help you to find out which category you come in.

- 1 Would you say that people who wear glasses are more intelligent than others?
  - (a) Are more intelligent than others?
  - (b) Are more studious than others?
  - (c) Lack a sense of humour?
  - (d) Are none of these?
- 2 Are your first impressions of people nearly always right?
  - (a) Yes.
  - (b) No.
- 3 Which of the following would you most like to be?
  - (a) A scientist.
  - (b) A social worker.
  - (c) An artist.
- 4 To what extent do a person's clothes express his personality?
  - (a) Very much.
  - (b) Fairly.
  - (c) Hardly at all.
- 5 Would you say that all policemen are likely to be strict fathers?
  - (a) Yes.
  - (b) No.
- 6 Do you find that people tend to confide in you?
  - (a) Yes.
  - (b) No.

7 Are most red haired people

- (a) Bad tempered?
- (b) Over-sensitive?
- (c) Neither of these?

8 If you were anxious about a friend, which of the following would worry you most?

- (a) A bad temper.
- (b) Insecurity.
- (c) Forgetfulness.
- (d) An interest in murder trials.

9 If a very anxious friend confides in you, would you

- (a) Listen but say very little?
- (b) Give him advice about what to do?
- (c) Suggest he sees a doctor?

10 Do you think people who talk a lot at interviews are likely to be

- (a) Aggressive?
- (b) Intelligent?
- (c) Insecure?
- (d) None of these?

11 Which of the following would be most characteristic of people who enjoy large parties?

- (a) They would prefer to be an actor than a house builder.
- (b) They enjoy being waited on by servants.

12 Do you dislike most of the people you work with?

- (a) Yes.
- (b) No.

13 Do you think it is possible to alter one's personality by will-power?

- (a) Yes.
- (b) No.

14 Would you say there was such a thing as a "born leader"?

- (a) Yes.
- (b) No.

15 Which would you say was the most important in a child's upbringing?

- (a) Heredity.
- (b) The first five years.
- (c) The school.

16 Which of the following would you say was the most valuable in judging personality?

- (a) A wide experience of others.
- (b) The ability to feel deeply?
- (c) An understanding of your own feelings.

17 How many people would you say had a sense of loyalty these days?

- (a) Most people.
- (b) Some but not the majority.
- (c) No one.

18 When would you say that a person was satisfied with his salary?

- (a) When he is getting enough money for his wants.
- (b) When he feels he is getting as much as others doing the same sort of work.
- (c) Never.

19 If you were trying to change the point of view of a very prejudiced person,

- (a) Argue with him?
- (b) Listen carefully to him and make no comment?
- (c) Give him up as a bad job?

you would

20 Would you say that there are many things about their private lives that most people are ashamed to talk of?

(a) Yes.

OVER 45. You are fortunate in the insight you have over others.

30-45. Average in this respect. You understand most people to the same extent that they understand you.

A trigger-happy sentry gets me in his sights

ROBERT MORLEY

reports on a day at the races... and on a turkey hunt that took him too near to a man with a gun

VIENNA. I NEVER actually saw the guard raise his Tommy gun and point it in my direction because I had turned my back on him and was walking away from the barbed wire to the car. I knew he was pointing the thing because David Kossow kept telling me so, but by that time I was working on the theory that if I couldn't see the sentry he couldn't see me.

When I got back into the car and realised no one had been shot I cheered up a good deal and we decided to stop at the first inn and celebrate.

A very old gentleman in leather shorts brought us three glasses of red biddy. "Ask him," I said to the chauffeur—who speaks the language and can therefore usually make himself understood better than I, except in the Imperial Hotel itself— "asked him if they ever really shoot."

FORBIDDEN

I UNDERSTOOD the old gentleman to say that they shoot quite often. "It is strictly forbidden to go up to the wire. When you do you are not only a fool, you are in Hungary."

"I think they might put up a notice on the Austrian side warning one," I told the interpreter. "Ask him why they don't."

"He says," replied the chauffeur after another fairly lengthy interchange, "that as far as he is concerned he doesn't think a notice would be any use. He can't read."

We left it at that and went looking for trappan on the salt marshes.

In case you may wonder what a trappan is, it is a sort of large wild turkey and the only one I ever saw was stuffed, but there are supposed to be 40 of them still alive in this part of Austria and I thought it would be pleasant to try to meet up with some.

I came upon the stuffed trappan by accident in a small museum by the side of Neusiedler, a salt lake about 50 miles from Vienna.

He stood out among his companions with an unmistakable star quality. He was large, richer, more imposing, altogether better produced. I daresay, like most of us, he wouldn't have seemed nearly so imposing had he been alive.

I don't suppose I shall ever see a live trappan, and by now, probably would have forgotten that they ever existed were it not that when I was looking for them I saw the Hungarian border.

A FUSS

EVEN to the most confirmed optimist about international relations and the future human race the sight of hundreds of miles of barbed wire at least 50 yards in depth and an endless chain of observation towers stretching away to the horizon, each manned by a sentry and at night lit up by searchlights, is a fairly depressing prospect. It certainly depressed me.

When I read that the Russian Ambassador made a fuss because one of his country's planes was obliged to land at Stansted I felt like writing to him and asking him how he thought Stansted compared with Andreevka, where the road suddenly becomes overgrown with weeds and then stops abruptly and where, when evening falls, the searchlights flicker and dart, searching for unfortunate Hungarians trying to escape from Russian policemen.

But nowadays I never go near the border. It is far too pleasant in Vienna or, for that matter,

Baden, where they have over considerably longer distances at what seemed very nearly the same speed, there were times when both horses and cyclists were sharing the turf in a most friendly and orderly manner.

I don't imagine we shall ever see anything of the kind at Ascot. We are inclined in Britain to take everything rather too seriously and racing is no exception.

I suppose some people would be irritated if the start of the Derby were delayed while a cavalcade of shiny new cars (described for us on the public address system) circled the course. But in Vienna there may have been someone in the crowd at the track who wanted to buy a new car and as long as there is anyone in the world who wants to buy anything, the Viennese will be out there trying to sell it to him.

They are past masters at putting their goods in the shop window and making you want to buy them. Perhaps because they have come back, as it were, from the other side of the Iron Curtain and can remember only too well how the Russians behaved in their city, they are now almost too eager to try to put the clock back in their beloved Vienna. Whether they really want life to be as it was 50 years ago or only think that that is what the tourists want is difficult to decide.

They have rebuilt the riding school down—or rather up—to the very last chandelier and the performances take place there every Sunday just as they always did when dear Francis Joseph was alive.

They have rebuilt the State Opera House, perhaps the most remarkable of all their achievements.

BEAUTIFUL

THEY have even rebuilt the Imperial Hotel with its enormous entrance hall. And when you ask them why they needed quite so much marble and so much stucco they will answer you sincerely and proudly: "We put it back exactly as it was because when the Russians had it they stabled their horses here."

Where the Russians kept their horses the Viennese now keep beautiful shiny American tourists each with a mink stole or a pocketbook of dollars. They, at the moment, are also keeping Deborah Kerr, Yul Brynner, Anouk Lévay, Old Uncle Bob Morley and all. But that is another story.

SWEDEN BECOME FIRST QUARTER-FINALISTS

Beat Hungary By 2-1
In The Only Match
Played Yesterday

EXCITING BUT TECHNICALLY MEDIOCRE MATCH

Stockholm, June 12.

Sweden today became the first team to qualify for the quarter-finals of the World Soccer championships when they beat Hungary 2-1, after leading 1-0 at half-time.

Harin scored for Sweden in the 34th and 54th minutes and Tichy scored for Hungary in the 75th. It was a second round match. After the match, Sweden led Group Three with four points, followed by Wales with two and Hungary and Mexico one each.

Team stopped talking about 45 minutes before the crucial match in which a Swedish win would qualify the Swedes for the quarter-finals.

The Hungarians seemed perturbed about the slow boggy turf which helped the slower, stronger Swedes.

Dominated

Hungary took their first corner in the 10th minute, but Berend overtook the goal. Hungary dominated from the outset with more skilful play but Sweden put up a powerful defence.

Sweden got a free kick in the 13th minute when Sipoer forced Skoglund but Hungarian goal-keeper Grosics saved. Simonsson, well assisted by Lachnani and then Gren, over-

EUROPE GRAND PRIX

Five Drivers
Crack Speed
Record In Trial Runs

France-Champagne, June 12. Four British drivers and an Italian cracked the speed record on the new track here in open trials today for the European Grand Prix to be run on Sunday. Britain's Mike Hawthorn (Ferrari) set the top mark with an average of 216.972 kph over a 14.100 kilometre course.

The former mark, 205.202 kph, was set by Belgium's Olivier Gendebien in a Ferrari 1.5 August. He did not drive today but will compete on Sunday.

Britain's Stirling Moss averaged 207.352 kph in a Vanwall, Britain's Tony Brooks 204.341 kph in a Vanwall, Peter Collins 204.101 kph in a Ferrari and Italy's Luigi Musso 203.283 kph in a Ferrari.

The sole mishap came when French ace, Jean Behra spun his BRM on a bend but he returned it to the track undamaged. —France-Press.

The First World
Tiddly Winks
Congress Held

Cambridge, June 12. The first World Tiddly Winks Congress ended today at Cambridge University.

Delegates from the major Universities agreed on a set of rules for all future tournaments. The first English Tiddly Winks Association was also set up.

The Secretary-general is Reverend Edgar Willis, a retired minister, who has been playing tiddly winks for over 50 years.

Tomorrow Cambridge University club plays the world's marbles champions, the Toleon Terribles, in a combined tiddly winks and marbles match at Crawley, Sussex.—China Mail Special.

WEST INDIAN

Garfield Sobers, the young West Indies Test Match batsman, is hitting the highspots for Radcliffe in his first season in the Lancashire League. Sixes and fours are pouring from his bat. He has already scored two centuries, and may beat the League record for the quickest 100 runs.—London Express.

Injury

Sweden took another fruitless corner and then Hungary's Tichy left the field momentarily with a knee injury after colliding with Gustavsson.

Harin scored Sweden's second goal in the 54th minute.

The second half had started like the first with a Hungarian attack. Sander took a pass from Pongyver and beat Swedish goalie Svensson but he was offside and the goal was refused.

Minutes later Tichy shot hard on a serve from Sander and the Hungarians jubilated as the ball appeared to enter the net. But it hit the crossbar and fell back into play. The referee refused the goal.

It was then that the Swedes counter-attacked and Harin, taking a long pass from Lachnani, scored in the 54th minute.

Penalty Kick

Grosics, apparently thinking the ball would rebound or that Harin was offside, never moved. The score was then Sweden 2, Hungary 0.

The Swedes continued to dominate while Hungary overcame a goalkeeping error by Sipoer to narrow the gap. Gren was fouled in front of the Hungarian goal but Lachnani's penalty kick went wide.

Hungary attacked and Tichy, on a centre from Sjoek, fired a sizzling 22-metre shot past Svensson in the 75th minute to make the score Sweden 2, Hungary 1.

The Swedes rallied and Parting scored with a diagonal kick from offside. Amid cheers from the partisan crowd, the referee refused the goal but gave Sweden a free kick which missed.

Tough Clashes

Evidently Hungary fouled before Parting went offside and the referee penalised the initial foul. The incident fanned the crowd's excitement and tough clashes ensued as Hungary attacked all out and Sweden sought to keep their narrow lead.

Harin nearly scored in a rare Swedish counter-attack but Matthy saved. Boszik missed a free kick in the 78th minute which grazed the outside of Sweden's right goalpost.

That was Hungary's last chance to tie and the final whistle blew Sweden into the quarter-finals, the first of the 16 contestants to get that far.

FRANCE AND FONTAINE LEAD TEAM AND INDIVIDUAL SCORING

Stockholm, June 12. France and its star player Fontaine, led team and individual scoring in the World Soccer Championships after the last second round game played today.

Brazil was tops on defence. Top individual scorers are: 1. Fontaine (France) 5 goals, 2. Alexandor Ivanov (Soviet Union) and Rahn (Germany) 3 goals each, 3. Simonsson (Sweden), Amarilla (Paraguay), Mazzola (Brazil), Veselinovic (Yugo-

Sweden, the host nation, owed their win to the wingman, Harin and Skoglund, left-backs. Harin, who scored both goals. He also starred in Sweden's 3-0 win over Mexico on Sunday.

Hungary were only a shadow of the team which reached the final four years ago. They outplayed the Swedish goal with a few lateral passes which gave the lumbering Swedish defenders plenty of time to back up.

Sweden, although a title favourite to win the title, their defence, centred on Liedholm, was well organised. That did not seem to have helped by a last-minute switch to lineup. Liedholm asked to be excused from play.

Replaced

He was replaced by Tichy, while Boszik went to centre-forward and Szolka to right-half.

Szolk started for Hungary and Tichy and Dandzak led the attack in the absence of Boszik who was constantly bottled up by Liedholm.

A crowd of 45,000, among them Princesses Margaretha, Beatrice and Desirée, watched the exciting but technically mediocre match in the Solna stadium. —France-Press.

Goal-Average
Question

Stockholm, June 12. The World's ace footballers, who have been playing for a place in the World Cup quarter-finals since last Sunday, are still not sure what they have to do to qualify.

It is understood that members of the International Federation (FIFA) are split on the question of the extent to which goal-average should be taken into account in the case of teams finishing their Group programmes level on points.

A meeting was held today, but no official statement was issued. A decision is not expected until Saturday, the day before the concluding matches of the first round.—Reuter.

Tony Pickard Upsets
Davidson In West Of England Tournament

Bristol, June 12.

Britain's youthful tennis hope, Tony Pickard, upset Sweden's Sven Davidson today and qualified for the semi-finals of the West of England lawn tennis championships. The score was 6-7, 7-5, 6-4.

Other men's quarter-final results were:

Mike Davies (Britain) beat Ivo Pimentel (Venezuela) 7-5, 6-2; R. Krishnan (India) beat Billy Knight (Britain) 6-3, 5-7, 6-2; R. Wilson (Britain) beat H. Ayala (Chile) 12-10, 7-5.

Women's quarter-final results were: Maria Bueno (Brazil) beat T. Long (Australia) 6-2, 4-6, 6-0; A. Mortimer (Britain) beat L. Coshlan (Australia) 1-6, 7-5, 6-3.

BEST WIN

The up and coming Pickard, who yesterday put out Don Cherry, the Australian, scored possibly the best win of his career when he beat the number one seed, Sven Davidson in a brilliant three-set quarter-final match.

Pickard, getting his service to work at once, outpaced the Swede and took the first set comfortably. Davidson came back in the second but there was very little in it until five-all, when Davidson broke through and held his service to level the match.

The pair exchanged shot for shot in the final set which went with service to three-all before Pickard, supremely confident, broke through and led 5-3. Davidson got a game back, the ninth, but Pickard, cranking home some magnificent services, took the match at 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.—France-Press.

COOPER AND
ROSE ENTER
THE FINAL

Scarborough, June 12. Australia's Ashley Cooper and Mervyn Rose today qualified for the final of the North of England tennis championships when they eliminated Australia's Warren Woodcock and South Africa's Abe Segal.

Cooper beat Woodcock 6-1, 6-4, 6-2 and Rose beat Segal 6-0, 6-3, 9-7.

Mrs H. Segal, qualified for the women's final by beating Australia's F. Huller 6-0, 6-2.

India's Naresh Kumar and P. Lal moved into the men's doubles final when they beat Rose and Woodcock 7-5, 6-0, 6-3, 4-6, 10-8.

In the women's singles quarter-finals, I. Trocicole (USA) beat S. Lazzarino (Italy) 2-6, 6-0, 6-4 and M. Hawthorn (Australia) beat R. Woodgate (Britain) 6-2, 6-4.—France-Press.

New York, June 12.

The Milwaukee Braves increased their National League lead to a game and a half today when they beat the Chicago Cubs, 5-4, while the San Francisco Giants were suffering their fifth straight defeat.

Once again the Braves did it the hard way, giving away three runs on four errors to trail by 4-3 at the end of the sixth inning. Ed Mathews tied it with his 13th homer in the seventh inning and then Del Crandall singled home Johnny Logan in the eighth for the winning run.

Humberto Robinson, third Milwaukee pitcher, received credit for his first victory while More Drabowsky, who pitched a one-hitter in his previous outing, was kayoed in 7-1/3 innings and suffered the defeat. Curt Raydon pitched a two-hitter to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 win over the Giants and Harry Anderson drove in three runs to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-3 decision over the Los Angeles Dodgers in other National League day games.

Bases Filled

Paul Giel walked home Roberto Clemente with bases filled and two out in the sixth inning to give the Pirates their decisive runs and Raydon his first big League victory. Raydon struck out six and walked five, while Mays, went hitless in four tries for the Giants and committed a two-base error that let the Pirates first run into scoring position.

Relief ace Dick Farrell won his third game for the Phillies, who rallied from an early 3-0 deficit. Anderson knocked in the winning run in the ninth after Noble Ashburn singled and was sacrificed to second.

Cincinnati was at St. Louis in a night game.

American League

Bill Hunter discovered that even a guy who beats the New York Yankees can be expendable.

Hunter, a .191-hitter last season and .155 this year, drove in two runs with a second-inning triple and then participated in three double plays as the Kansas City Athletics downed the Yankees, 4-1.

It was the Athletics' first victory in 10 games at New York. So Hunter was a nighty happy fellow when he traded to the Clubhouse to accept congratulations.

Instead, Billy was told he had just been traded to the Cleveland Indians.

"That's baschally," said Billy and headed for Baltimore where the Indians play tonight.

Eight-Hitter

Ray Herbert pitched an eight-hitter to win his second game and Bob Cerv hit his 16th homer for the Athletics. Tom Sturdivant, the Yankees' leading winner last season, suffered his fourth loss against one victory.

Jack Jensen's 15th homer of the year and four hits by Summy white led the Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the other A.L. day game. Dave Sisler, aided by Ike Delock, won his sixth game. It was the first loss for Detroit's new Manager, Bill Norman.

Kansas City played a second game at New York. Chicago was at Washington and Cleveland at Baltimore in night games.

US Open Golf

Oklahoma, June 12. Bruce Crampton, a 22-year-old curly haired Australian trying to become the first foreign winner of the title in 28 years, fired a three over par 73 over the sun-baked hills of the Southern Hills Golf Club today to take the lead among the early first round finishers in the U.S. Open Championship.

He lost three shots to regulation figures as he came in with a 38.—U.P.I.

SOMETHING TO FIGHT FOR

Twenty-one years ago the Municipal golf club of Hull and Leeds—Springhead and Tompess—inaugurated an inter-club match, and when someone asked what they were playing for someone else jokingly said: "Oh, only a dustbin."

To this day, and the match comes of age this year, the members still play for a dustbin—a miniature made of shining steel. The match is a serious affair, and has, curiously enough, always been won by the home team on alternate courses each year.—London Express.

Cricket History Made At Hull

The Story Of Fred Trueman And His Pairs Of Stolen Boots

Returned to the Visitors' Dressing Room at Lord's cricket ground three days before the First Test match between England and New Zealand were the stolen cricket boots of fast bowler Freddie Trueman.

Trueman's boots are special boots. He cannot bowl his best unless he is wearing them. For the ones for the right foot have a steel protector fitted to the toe-cap.

Like most fast bowlers, Trueman drags his right foot in the delivery stride—which means that for a few minutes with each ball the whole of his 180 pounds are poised on the right big toe.

Hence the stainless-steel moulded to fit him. Making it is a highly-skilled business, needing several fittings. It could take up to three weeks.

UNEASY WEEKEND

Without the toe-cap Trueman would wear out something like six right boots in a season.

So, with the first England v New Zealand Test match a few days away, the disappearance of the suitcase containing his boots and the rest of his cricketing gear caused Trueman an uneasy weekend.

But three days before the match, the suitcase, complete with boots, was produced at Clerkenwell Court, London, and two men who pleaded guilty to stealing it from Trueman's car were sent to prison for a month.

Then Detective Constable Charles Tyler, who made the arrests, took the precious suitcase personally to Lord's—and a grateful Freddie Trueman. —Reuter.

Never Too Old

Who is the oldest active athlete in the world? Could be Joe Deakin, of Surrey, who is eighty years old and won an Olympic Games title in 1900. He has just won a three miles handicap race at Tooting Bec Common, London, and says of modern athletes: "They won't last as long as me with all their crazy training." —London Express.

YORKSHIRE-NOTTS MATCH CALLED OFF WITH STILL ONE DAY TO GO

London, June 12. Cricket history was made on the waterlogged Hull ground today, where the Yorkshire and Nottinghamshire match was abandoned completely with a day to go. No play was possible yesterday when the match should have started.

The MCC have no previous record of a match being called off as early as the second morning. An official at Lord's said afterwards "There is nothing in the rules to prevent cricket being called off 24 hours early but it is certainly remarkable."

The Hull groundman does not expect the ground to be fit for a week. Yorkshire, who have so far lost 11 days' cricket out of 27 possible in their Championship programme because of rain.

Elsewhere rain prevented any play before lunch and at Brentwood where Essex are playing Sussex and at Tunbridge Wells where Kent are meeting Gloucestershire there was no play at all during the day.

After a three-hour delay, Lancashire were always struggling against the back-to-form Surrey side. Surrey gained a first innings lead of 59 and then captured three wickets for 12 runs. At the close Lancashire had struggled to 44 for five.

Fine Win

Hampshire gained a fine 10-wicket win over Somerset at Yeovil due to the steady bowling of Derek Shackleton who captured five for 17 in 26 overs of which 16 were maidens. Somerset, who were 95 behind on the first innings, were dismissed for 115.

West Indian Roy Marshall hit all 21 runs needed for Hampshire's win off 17 balls. Hampshire are now assured of joint second place in the table with Middlesex as a result of their win when the present series of matches ends tomorrow.

Closing Scores

At the Oval: Lancashire 121 and 44 for five. Surrey 180 (3).

Concubine 48, R. Tattersall 50 for 40).

At Oxford: Oxford University 167 and two for no wicket. Middlesex 109 (W. Russell 41, A. Corran five for 81).

At Tunbridge Wells: Kent (200 for eight) versus Gloucestershire. No play today because of rain.

At Lord's: Cambridge University 333, M.C.C. 149 for four (W. Edrich 40, Subba Row 43).

At Leicester: Worcestershire 208 for eight declared. Leicestershire 76 for nine.

At Yeovil: Hampshire beat Somerset by 10 wickets. Somerset 112 and 110 (J. Lomas 41, D. Shackleton five for 17).

Hampshire 207 (C. McCool five for 63 and 21 for no wicket). Hampshire 14 points.—Reuter.

INCLUSION OF CULTURAL SUBJECTS IN ASIAN GAMES ADVOCATED BY SENIOR VICE-PRESIDENT

Calcutta, June 12.

Mr G. D. Sondhi, senior Vice-President of the Asian Games Federation and a member of the International Olympic Committee, said here today that the number of sports in future Asian Games should be reduced progressively to not more than seven.

These should be athletics, swimming, wrestling, basketball, volleyball, football and weightlifting, he declared.

These sports, he said, measured up to his criteria for judging the usefulness or utility of a game—its popularity, cost and the size of the number who could participate in it.

Had Support

Mr Sondhi said his suggestion had the support of Mr Avery Brundage, American Chairman of the International Olympic Committee.

Mr Sondhi, who attended the recent Games in Tokyo, also advocated the inclusion of cultural subjects, including visual arts such as plastic work, handicrafts of all types and painting. —Reuter.

Tell me Doctor!

"Why do you always use Wright's Coal Tar Soap?"

"Well, you see, Mrs. Smith, I just have to keep my hands soft and sensitive so that I can diagnose troubles and, above all, must make them gentle."

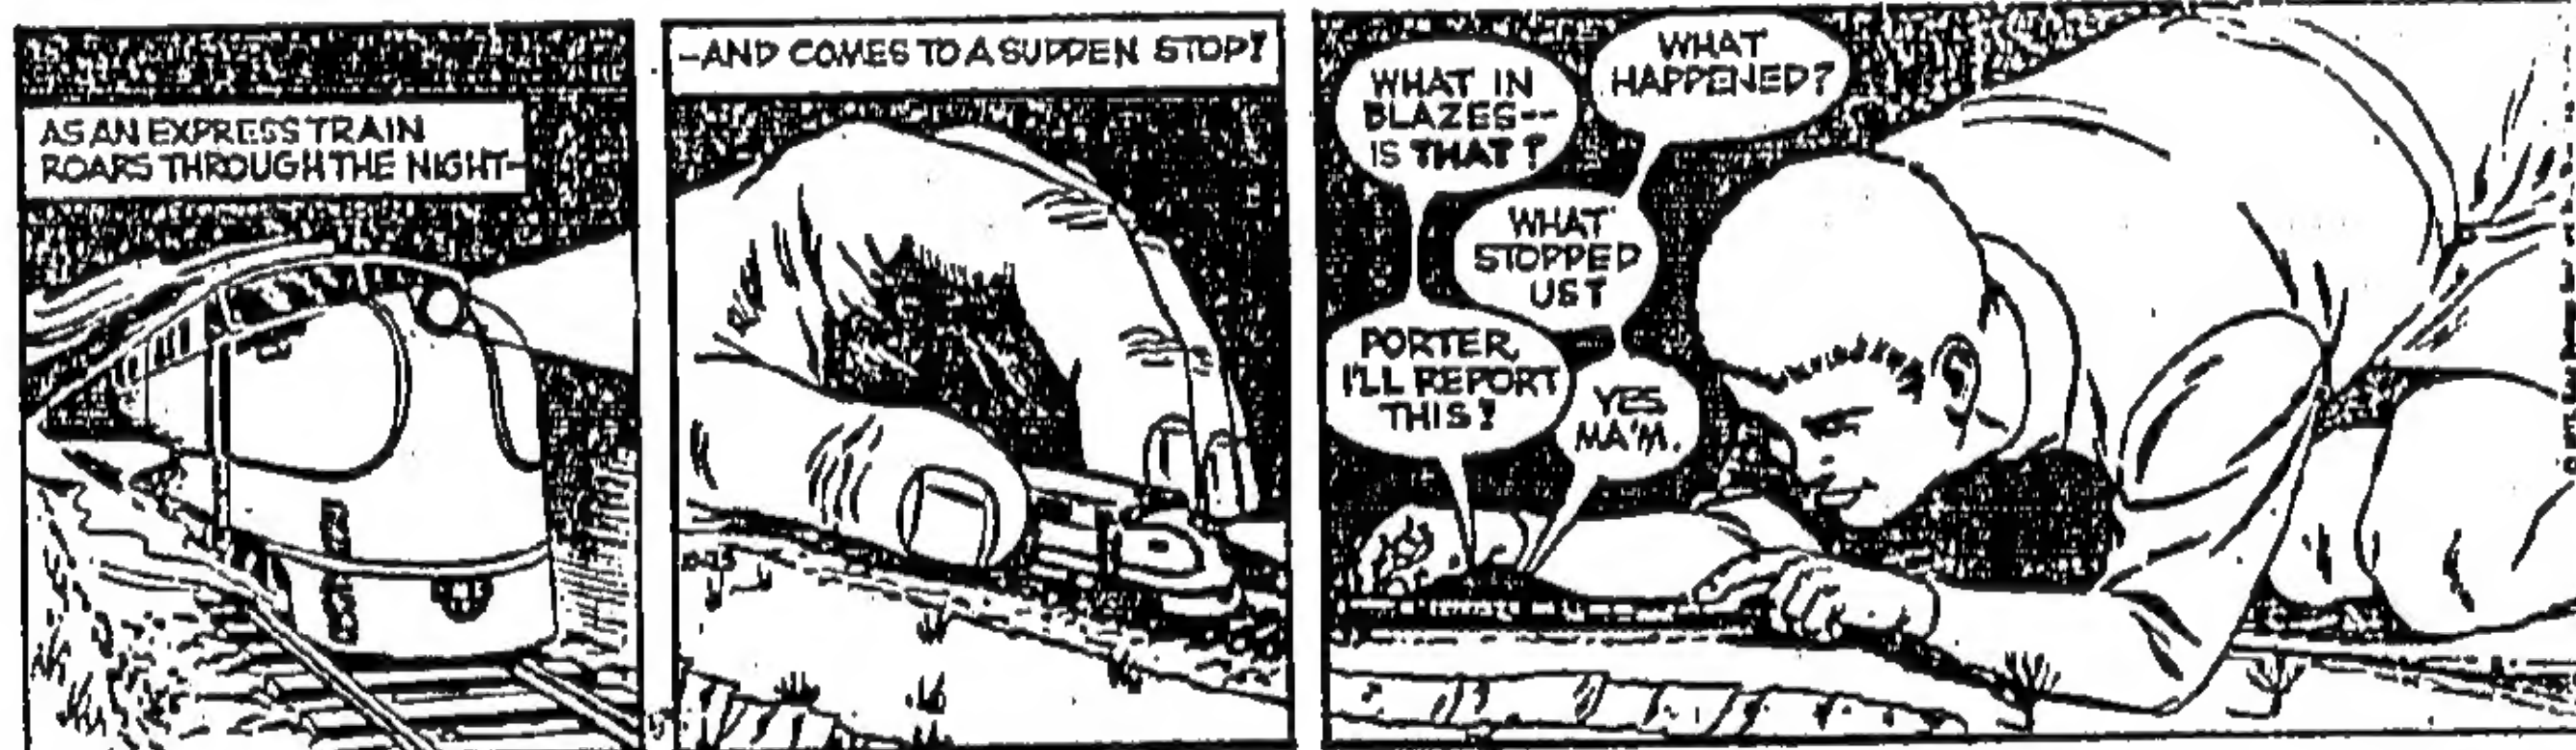

There are lots of good soaps, but I believe that Wright's serves these purposes better than any soap I know. If Wright's Coal Tar Soap does this for Doctors, surely it can do the same for you and your children. A kinder soap, a better soap.

FIRST POEMS

Who is Margaret Leong? Longman's have just published, in a tiny paper back with very pretty two tone drawings her "MY FIRST BOOK OF POEMS."

The book says nothing about her. But from the book you get the feel of a Chinese girl in Malaya brought up on volumes of English children's poetry which she learned by heart, understood, enjoys, and now reproduces. The scenes of her poems are Malaya. But the accent, the stanza, the choice of words are in English as bedtime. Listen to this:
 Ships in the harbour
 Boats by the quay,
 Tall ocean liners
 Back from the sea.
 Or:
 And not till they lay
 In a great red heap
 Would the firecrackers let
 Their noise sleep.
 I don't know anything about Margaret Leong. But I rather like her work.

Note from a Hongkong educator: "Just what is needed for the primary school age group. What Chinese children need are simple books written in English with a genuine Chinese background. Most of the poems have charm, with an occasional tendency to be trite and occasional flashes of genuine poetic magic."
 But in the evening shadows,
 Below the crescent moon
 The coral fishes frolic
 In the coral-filled lagoon;
 Or:
 Sampan, sampan,
 With great black wings,
 Take me to where
 The flower-jockey sings.

WITNESSES
 Alfred Bunker, Secretary of the Wimbledon Pigeon Club, said five witnesses saw a police shooter pick out the bird and bring it down on the wing. He said the incident came less than 48 hours after police agreed to pick on birds near their wooded range only during specified weekend periods when racing birds would be locked up.

Bunker said they had challenged police "to distinguish the difference between a wood pigeon and a racing pigeon one hundred yards away on the wing."
 He added, "they ignored us."

Impressive Performance By The Hongkong Philharmonic

By D. E. GRAY

Last night in Lake Yew Hall, University of Hongkong, the Hongkong Philharmonic Orchestra gave a most impressive performance, in this, their last concert of the present season.

The programme was well-balanced, consisting of 'Italiana in Algeria' by Rossini, and Schumann's A Minor Piano Concerto, with Miss Caroline Bruns, in the first half. After the interval we heard Beethoven's Seventh Symphony.

It is a far cry from the days when this orchestra could manage nothing but Haydn and Mozart symphonies and Handel and Geminelli. They have made tremendous strides in the last year or so. Playing with great artists like Katchen, Fournier and Ricci has undoubtedly inspired the players to a standard of performance much nearer that of a professional orchestra than ever before.

Four years ago, their playing of Beethoven's Sixth and Seventh Symphonies as well as a concerto like the Schumann, would have been almost laughable. Now they are playing them, and playing them well indeed.

However, while playing with good artists has inspired them, I have no doubt, the real credit for their orchestral training falls squarely on the shoulders of the conductor. I have heard lots of how players resent Professor Fox's shouting at them at rehearsal, and I can understand the importance of 'face' in this part of the world. Nevertheless, his efforts have borne fruit. As Barbirolli would say, his 'boys' played well, and I am sure each player at last night's concert can take credit in a job well done.

Weaknesses
 It is very easy to catalogue weaknesses. I would like to see a stronger 'cello section. The beautiful 'cello solo in the second movement of the Concerto called for much more breadth, brilliance and indeed accuracy of tone.

The second violin section really requires strengthening—in any passage in their own, the tempo of the first and third movements of the Symphony was on the slow side. But these are things which we, the public, must put up with in the absence of a fully professional orchestra.

The first violin section played extremely well throughout. It has a splendid first desk in Dr. S.M. Bard and Mrs. Moya Rea. The intonation of the woodwind and brass was good, and the first oboe, with his important job to do carried it off well. The tendency of the woodwind section in an amateur orchestra is to play sharp; but I have no criticism whatever on that score at last night's performance.

Percussion
 One section of this orchestra which requires attention is the percussion—a section seldom noticed by people reviewing concerts. Their tympanites are not good, but the managing committee is fully alive to this and is hoping to replace them with good instruments in the near future.

An observation of a rather fundamental nature of last night's concert was the hall noise. The standard of performance was far higher than that of four years ago, (and has been, throughout this season).

son) when 'houses' were sold out a week in advance. The truth would appear to be that the public is now demanding a far higher standard of performance, and the public of this colony has to thank the impresario Harry Odell and the Music Society for contributing to the raising of this standard by bringing good artists here.

This is a challenge to the Philharmonic, an orchestra which has served Hongkong so well. I hope, for the sake of the listening public, they can meet that challenge. However, for the time being, I say thank you to the Philharmonic for giving Hongkong so much good music since last October, and I look forward to hearing them again after the summer interval.

A word about the punctuality of the audience. They arrived on time; which just indicates that with a little prodding people can be induced to make the extra effort to get to their seats before the concert starts.

TUC Order
 contribution to the striking busmen, who stopped work 38 days ago.

Up to now, the T.G.W.U. has been handing out strike pay at the rate of £220,000 a week from reserves estimated at around £100,000,000.

Political observers pointed out, however, that the union could not exhaust the whole of its reserves solely to maintain the bus strike. It was believed that the total reserves of the main British unions amounted to more than £100,000,000.

The strike committee tonight reconsidered the possibility of extending the stoppage to other professions, but such measures were opposed by Cousins in view of the new T.U.C. support. Meanwhile, the strike of dock workers in the port of London continued today, although the majority of the strikers have already decided to return to work on Monday.

Rejected
 About 5,000 have, however, decided against a resumption of work without a settlement in the dispute of van drivers and meat porters in the central London meat market.

Attempts to settle this latter dispute again ended in failure today. The combined stoppage of the dock workers and the meat porters has already disrupted supplies for the British capital.

The death of a motorist passing through Calcutta was earned him the title of the A.C. of Road Hogs. His car, rushing down the street knocked down a young boy on a bicycle. He sprang out of his car and started to scold the boy for his 'carelessness'. As the dazed youth was recovering his senses the motorist still talking angrily, picked up the bicycle, put it in the back of his car. Then he drove off with the bicycle.

It was decided at a recent meeting of the Football Association Council, to demand an explanation from the St. Joseph's Football Club for their tactical game against South China in the concluding game of the season.

Twice in the past three months a 10,000,000 to 1 hand has been dealt in Australia. On February 11, a Melbourne player received a full suit of 13 spades. At the home of Mrs. Joan Quint, Lindfield, the same remarkable hand was dealt again, 13 spades.

Calcutta. The Mount Everest Expedition, led by Mr. Hugh Rutledge will not attempt to reach the summit of Mount Everest until autumn, according to messages received from the base camp of the expedition.

QUARTER TITHES FOR ANGLICANS

Harpenden Herts, June 12. Church of England people should be prepared to put sixpence in the pound of their net income into the collection plate, the Bishop of Bedford, the Right Rev. B. T. Guy, told St Albans diocesan conference at Harpenden.

This represented about one hour's wages a week on a 40-hour week, he said. At present the response to church collections was desultory. "We are not a poverty-stricken or a mean people," the Bishop went on. "And yet, as a family, we Church of England people have never produced enough money for the Church to do its work properly."

"No man could suggest that to give God sixpence in the pound is earning his way to heaven, but it is a token. It is much more than most of us are at present giving,"—China Mail Special.

Strike Breakers
 Bombay, June 12. Twenty policemen and two police officials were injured today while dispersing rioters at a strike-hit car factory here. The police used tear gas and 25 people were arrested.

The riot broke out when strikers stoned police-escorted lorries bringing in newly-recruited workers to the Premier automobile factory, which has been strike-bound for two months over a pay dispute.

Among those arrested was a union official.—Reuter.

HOW MANY
 words of the alphabet can you make from the letters P, O, R, U, A, I, S, C, A? Each word must contain the letters in the square, and there must be at least one letter in the word which is not in the square. Words may be proper names, but they must be good words. Write your answers on a separate sheet of paper. The best solution is the one with the most words.

SEAMAN ACQUITTED ON ONE CHARGE

Opium Possession Allegation Dropped

A Chinese seaman, one of two men alleged to have conspired to deal in opium, was acquitted of a charge of having possessed more than a thousand pounds of the drug.

At the end of the seven-weeks-long Crown case in the Victoria District Court, Crown Prosecutor Mr D. E. Greenfield invited the Court to acquit the seaman on one of two charges against him.

No evidence of possession of opium had been produced against the man during the Crown's case, Mr Greenfield said.

The seaman, Pui Sai-hung, 35, was acquitted by Judge H.H.B. How of having possessed 1,076 1/2 pounds of opium on February 22.

Pui still faces a charge that he conspired to deal in opium between October last year and February this year.

He pleaded not guilty to both charges at the beginning of the trial.

No Case

Pui's Counsel, Mr Richard Winter, said today he would submit on Monday that there was no case to answer on the charge of conspiracy against Pui.

Also on trial on two similar charges is Indian merchant Mohindra Verma, 30.

Mr John McNeill QC, for Verma, also submitted today that there was no case to answer on either charge against Verma. He said he was addressing the Court after Mr Winter on Monday.

Following several days of legal argument Judge How today ruled that nearly one hundred documents allegedly found by police in the office of Associated Enterprises, of which Verma was manager, were not admissible as evidence.

Great Doubt

The documents had been put to a Crown witness, Lo Wai-lin, an employee of Verma, who said that handwriting on them appeared to be Verma's.

Excluding the documents as evidence Judge How said he believed Lo had tried to be honest in his evidence but retractions he had made under cross examination placed great doubt on his knowledge of Verma's handwriting.

Following the ruling, Mr Greenfield announced the end of the Crown case.

Mr Winter said he would submit there was no case to answer on both charges against Pui.

More To Say

Mr Greenfield said the Crown did not consider there was any evidence on the second charge against Pui. The possibility of tendering a nolle prosequi on that charge had been considered but decided against.

However, Mr Greenfield said, he would have a great deal to say about the conspiracy charge against Pui.

Chinese Woman Criminally Assaulted

A Chinese woman living in a hut at Ko Po Village, Pat Heung, in the New Territories was criminally assaulted after an intruder had bound and gagged her at about 4 a.m. today.

HK Traffic Accidents

A 20-year-old man sustained serious injuries when he was knocked down by a Government vehicle in Chatham Road, near Mody Road, yesterday. The man, Fung Tai Sau of No. 23, Chatham Road, fifth floor, is receiving treatment in Kowloon Hospital.

Two Chinese girls, one aged six and the other four, were injured when they were knocked down by a private car in Main Street West, near Hoi An Street last night.

The elder girl, Lam Yuk Kwan of No. 40, Hoi An Street, second floor, was taken to Queen Mary Hospital for treatment. The younger girl sustained only minor injuries.

OBE For C & W Official

News was received from London today that Mr H.C. Baker, Divisional Manager for East, Cable and Wireless Ltd., has been awarded the OBE (Officer Order of the British Empire) in the Queen's Birthday Honours (Prime Minister's List).

Snatchings

Man Questioned On Sub-Contracting For Govt Job

The managing partner of a firm of building contractors was queried this morning at the Supreme Court about sub-contracting a job for the Government to another party.

The witness was Mr Chu On-tai, of the Hang On Tai building contractors, of 132 Wing Lok Street.

The contractors are being sued before Mr Justice C.W. Rees by Mrs Kwok Si-hung concerning a debt of $28,000. Mrs Kwok, in another action, was awarded judgment against two other persons, Au Chak-chuen and Ng Ho-fut. The sum sued for was not paid and plaintiff applied to attach a garnishee order nisi to the present defendants, whom Au and Ng alleged had owed them $28,000 for work done on a Government contract at Tsun Wan.

In the present action, the issue is whether or not the building contractors were in fact indebted to Au and Ng at the time the order nisi was served.

Money Advanced

Mr Oswald Cheung is representing the woman, instructed by Messrs Deacon. Mr Gerald de Busto is representing the defendant firm, instructed by D'Almeida Remedios and Co.

Under cross-examination today, Mr Chu said Au and Ng were supposed to finance the work in that Government contract themselves.

Witness said he subsequently advanced them money, however, because they had no money to carry on the job.

Mr Chu agreed he was under no obligation to do so. Before he sub-contracted the job to the two, he had asked Ng if he had sufficient money and Ng had said he could make "the necessary arrangements."

Took His Word

He did not make any other enquiries at the time about the financial position of the two, witness added, but took Ng's word for it.

Mr Chu said he had expected Ng to get the necessary materials by himself. But subsequently Ng applied to him for materials and cash advances "within a month of the sub-contracting of the job."

He did not charge Ng any interest on the money he advanced him. He sometimes gave Ng cash at other times the payments were in cheques.

Most of the cheques were postdated, because his own firm had no available money at that particular time.

Other Jobs

Asked why he sub-contracted the job to others after having got the contract from Government, Mr Chu said that at that time in 1956 the firm was engaged in other jobs.

Mr Cheung asked if the position was that his firm took this step with all contracts they received. Witness said that was not so. Some contracts, he said, were looked after by the firm itself.

Hearing is proceeding.

Discharged From Hospital

Mr Norman Hutchfield, of 35 Deep Water Bay Road, who received injuries in a car accident in Stubbs Road, yesterday, was discharged from the Matilda Hospital this morning.

Allegedly Falsified Application For British Papers

A 29-year-old salesman, Hon Wal-man, of 68 Bonham Strand, second floor, was remanded for seven days by Mr Hin-shing Lo at Central Magistracy this morning on a charge of making a false statement in an application for naturalisation as a British subject.

It was alleged that at the Supreme Court on June 19, 1956, the defendant knowingly and wilfully made a statement false in a material particular before the Commissioner for Oaths in an application for naturalisation as a British subject, in which he stated that he resided in Hongkong between 1930-34 and 1935-56. Defendant, who was on bail of $700, pleaded not guilty. Detective Sub-Inspector Chan Sik-kwong is in charge of the case.

Pickpocket Gets Two Years' Gaol

A 29-year-old unemployed man, Wong Chi-keung, living in an unnumbered hut in Ngau Tau Kok Village, was sentenced to two years hard labour, for theft by Mr K. A. S. Phillips at Central Magistracy this morning.

Prosecuting, Sub-Inspector K. L. Ma said that on May 31, the complainant, Wan Pui-chiu, was travelling in the third class compartment of an Eastbound train.

When the train reached Hennessy Road, Wan felt something touch his pocket, and he put his hand into his pocket and found that $70 was missing.

He then told the conductor not to allow anyone off and, the police were called.

The passengers were searched and the money was found on the defendant who admitted the theft.

The money was ordered to be returned to the owner.

Man's Appeal Against Indecent Assault Conviction Dismissed

Mr Justice J. R. Gregg in the Appeals Court this morning dismissed an appeal by a 26-year-old coolie, Lau Tin, against his conviction for indecent assault.

Lau was given six months by Mr A. L. Leathlean at Central Court on April 3, for indecently assaulting a 12-year-old girl in the evening of March 30, while she was seeing a movie at the Hongkong Tramway Canteen.

WAS GIVEN $20 TO BEAT MAN UP

Yiu Kam, a 25-year-old coolie of the Ming Sang Wharf, Connaught Road, West, was sentenced to six months imprisonment for assault by Mr K. A. S. Phillips at Central Magistracy this morning.

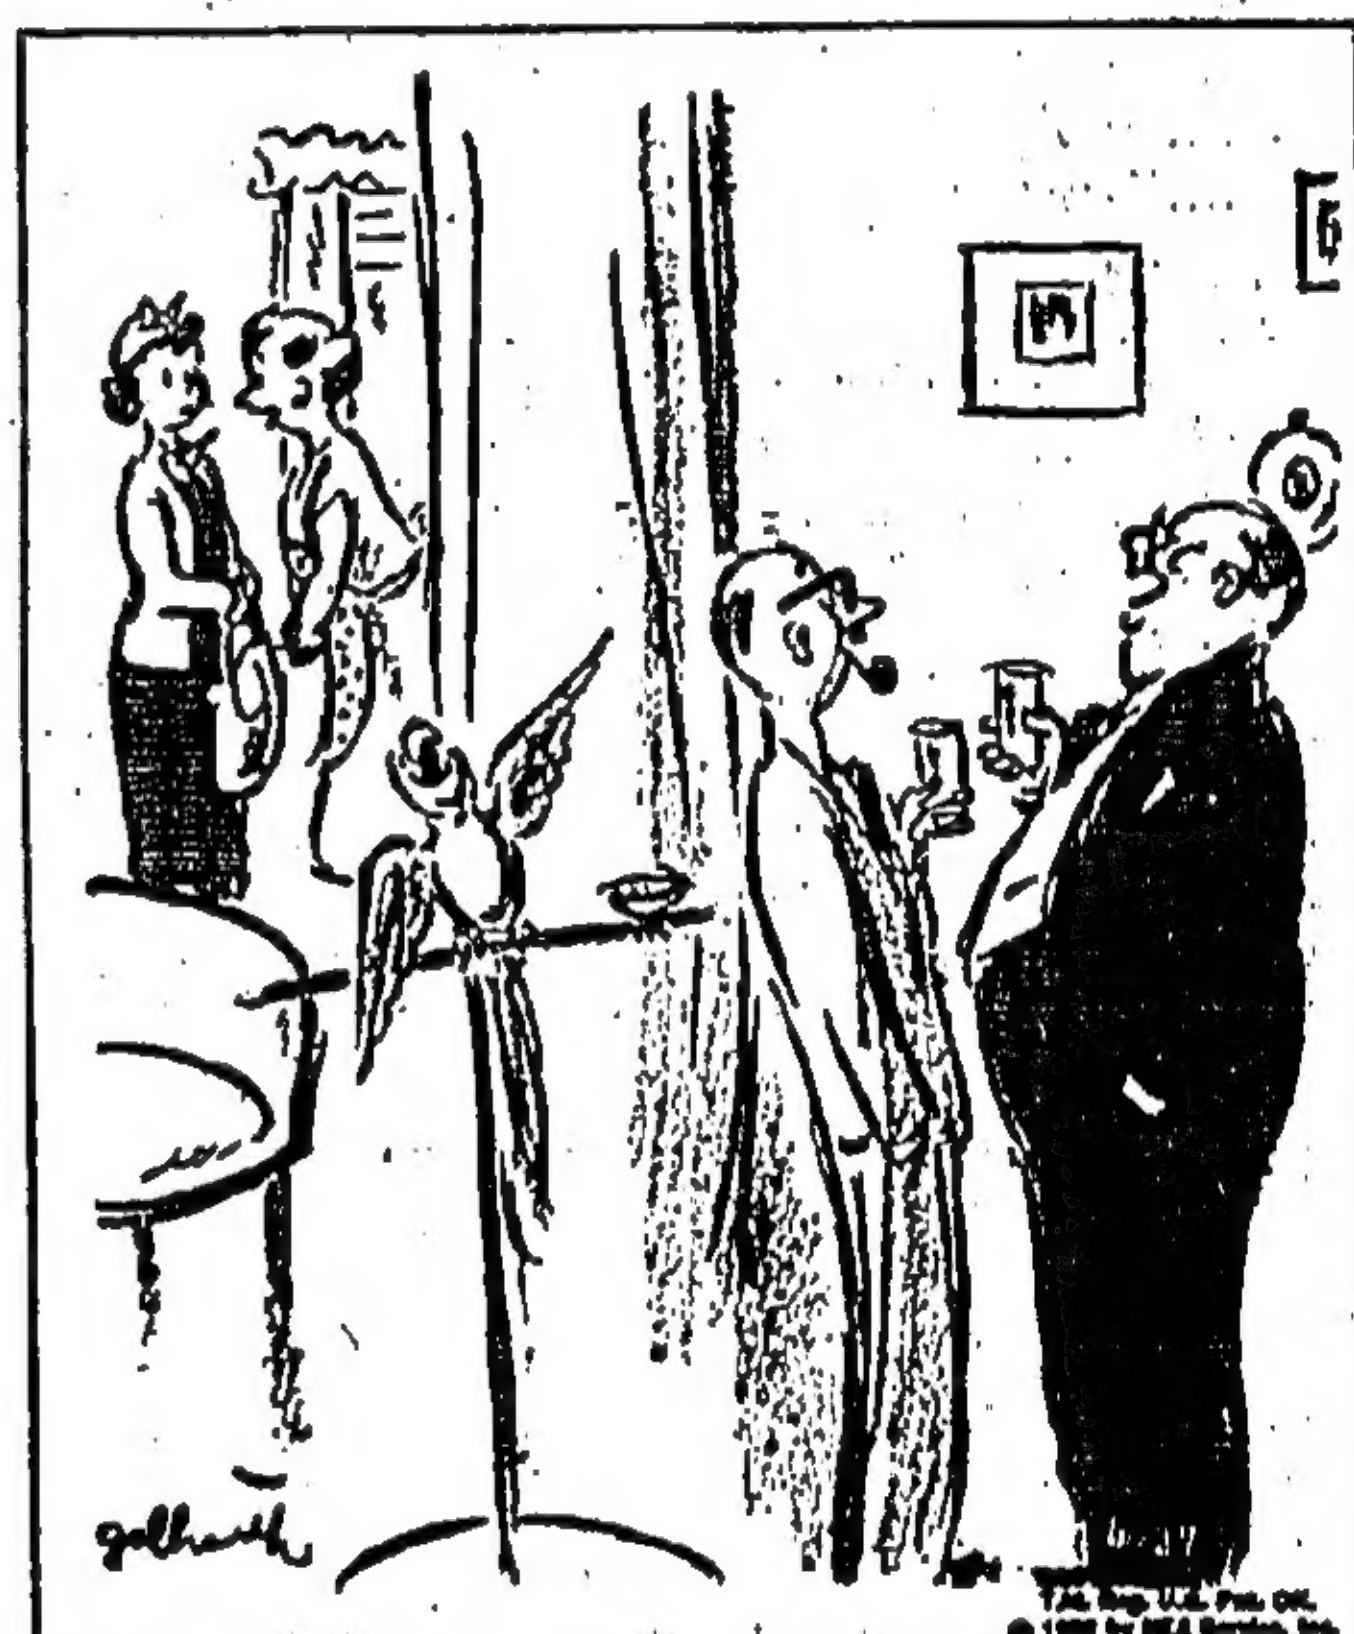

It was stated that on Wednesday, two constables were driving along Des Voeux Road, West, in a police van, when they saw the defendant holding the complainant, Cheung Hing-kwong. Another man, not in custody, was hitting him.

They stopped the van and as they did the men ran away. The constables chased them and eventually caught Yiu. The other man escaped.

Yiu said, in mitigation, that someone had offered him $20 to beat up Cheung.

Cheung received injuries to his head and chest.
